

The First Roma Arte ★★★★★

Nestled on a quiet street near Piazza del Popolo, just five minutes' walk from The Spanish Steps, The First Roma Arte is a sophisticated, intimate boutique property, far removed from the hustle and bustle of the Eternal City. Filled with contemporary art and brimming with elegance and charm, the hotel has a gourmet restaurant Acquolina, and one of Rome's finest rooftop terraces Acquarroof.

Marco Marroni

▲ Marco is a native Roman and has for the past 29 years made the luxury hospitality industry his home. He took up the reins of general manager of The Majestic Hotel in Rome in 1990 and now proudly manages The First Roma Arte and The First Roma Dolce Hotels. His assignment at The First took place in October of 2019 and since then he has been looking after guests at two of Rome's very finest boutique hotels. One thing guests immediately notice upon entering The First Roma Arte is the complete lack of pretense. Pomposity is nowhere to be found. And that is the case with Marco...he exudes quality, luxury and precision but not an iota of pretention. Marco has fit in very well.

The location is strategic, the rooftop terrace cannot be bettered, while the rooms and views are beautiful. I noticed every single well thought-out detail in the room.
