

Château du Coudreceau ★★★★★

Recently opened as an exclusive use private golf retreat, Château du Coudreceau is an 18th century French manor house set on 200 acres of beautiful countryside in the Loire Valley just 90 minutes south of Paris by car. With its own private 14-hole golf course and after a five-year renovation, the Château du Coudreceau opened in the fall of 2018 to rave reviews from the luxury travel and golfing media alike. With just 7 plush suites the chateau is the ideal for families, executive retreats or board meetings.

Niall Carroll

◀ Niall Carroll is the general manager of Château du Coudreceau and leads the impeccable team that make this property one of the most sought-after private estates in France. Originally from Ireland, Niall has a penchant for putting people at ease and ensuring they feel supremely confident that all fine details have been looked after. He's very high energy and one would have to be to successfully manage a private luxury chateau with its own exclusive golf course. A one handicap golfer himself, Niall has held senior managerial positions at some of Ireland's most prestigious clubs which comes in handy when golf is such a precious part of the Château du Coudreceau.

Guests of the château are greeted by Niall and immediately find out that nothing is too much bother, that their complete satisfaction is his perpetual mission and that the word "no" is noticeably absent from his vocabulary. If you wish to rent a private château with an expert staff and a perfectly manicured golf course for your exclusive use, you want Niall managing your stay.

"We have just left the Château du Coudreceau and it was amazing. One of the most beautiful places we have visited that is privately owned! Would be the most beautiful place for our daughter to get married!"
